

ELEMENTS OF A WINNING RESUME

Your resume should be viewed as your personal marketing tool, the sole purpose of which is to secure the interview. A well-written resume gives you the opportunity to state your career goals and describe your skills and experience which support these goals. It should be a concise, purposeful and organized summary of the experience you have as it relates to a particular position. Remember, none of the following concepts are written in stone. The whole idea is to promote you as the best person for the job!

HEADING

Place your name at the top of the page highlighted by slightly larger typeface, bolding with address, phone #, and email to follow. Be sure to include your email address, it demonstrates computer skills to the reader. Try to use the same heading for your resume, cover letter and references to present a uniform package.

EDUCATION

Your education should be clearly stated in reverse chronological order with most recent first. Always spell out the name and type of degree, followed by your major title and concentration. If you haven't finished your degree yet, put "Anticipated," or "Expected May 2012".

EXPERIENCE HIGHLIGHTS

All entries in this section should highlight a capability or accomplishment. Begin with and utilize action verbs in your job descriptions and make sure that verb tense is consistent throughout the resume. Capitalization, punctuation, and date formats should all be consistent for every description. See the "Resume Formats" for more details on this section.

RESUME FORMATS

Chronological: The Chronological resume is organized by job titles with the most recent position listed first. For job seekers with solid experience and a logical job history, the chronological resume is the most effective. Career changers and those who lack formal on-the-job experience (like new graduates) find this resume the most difficult to write. The experience section in a chronological resume must concisely emphasize your most important duties with a company, skills used that apply to your career goals, awards or achievements, and specific benefits you brought to the company. Dates should be placed in the right-hand margin, so that they are easy to follow. If you have gaps in your employment you should try switching to a different format and using only years.

Functional: The Functional resume rearranges employment history into sections that highlight areas of skill and accomplishment. This type of resume might be thought of as a "problem solving" format. It gives you the opportunity to "make sense" of your work history and match up skills and accomplishments that might not be obvious to the employer. It is especially useful if you are a new college graduate, have large gaps in your work history, or especially if you are making a career change -- either changing fields (from substance abuse to children and families) or changing occupation (from social worker to teacher.).

Combination: The Combination resume is really a cross of the best from the Functional and Chronological resume styles. It offers the writer an opportunity to improvise in the development of the resume. The Combination resume is best used when:

- You have some relevant work experience that is of short duration.
- Your education is an important part of your overall skills presentation.
- Your overall background reflects a range of unrelated skills.
- Your work history reflects more time in other occupational areas.

Because the combination resume allows you to use the best of the Functional and Chronological style resumes, it can reflect solid career development very easily. For many people, this format generally works best. It allows you to market all of your best points of your experience and abilities in the experience section, and then back it up with your work history in chronological order.

CAPABILITIES

Depending what type of resume format you use, this section is not required. If you have special or transferable skills that you think should be highlighted and don't fit into any other category, this is the place to put them. Some of these skills include: computer proficiency, bilingual, communication skills, teambuilding skills, and many others.

VOLUNTEER / COMMUNITY SERVICE

Present these activities in the same format as jobs; give a heading which includes your title, name of organizations, dates and location. If your position involved leadership, or significant responsibilities, they can be included in the Experience section of your resume.

PROFESSIONAL AFFILIATIONS, LICENSES, AND CERTIFICATIONS

Always include your licenses and certifications in your resume. It is also recommended that you join NASW now, as it will be a valuable networking resource for you as a professional, and you are eligible for the student rate.

REFERENCES

Have a separate sheet of references available for employers when they ask for them. Your reference page should be neat, with the same heading as your resume. It is not really necessary to include references available upon request on the bottom of your resume since it just goes unspoken that you can provide references if asked.

FORMAT

Your resume should maintain an eye-pleasing balance: in other words, the entire sheet should not be filled with words. The utilization of white space is important in creating an attractive resume. Here are some things you should look for:

- Hold your resume at arm's length and see how it looks.
- Is the page too busy with different type styles, sizes, lines, or boxes?
- Is the information spaced well, not crowded on the page?
- Is there too much "white space"?

DO

- Write your resume for your future, not your past
- Emphasize your skills and accomplishments
- Be direct, well-organized, and professional
- Communicate your strongest points first
- Leave a comfortable margin on all sides (usually .5 to 1 inch)
- Always try to fit your resume onto one page, no more than two. If you do go past one page, make it at least a page and a half or two full pages.
- Print on one side of the sheet only, on high-quality bond – white or off-white (i.e. beige or ivory)
- Have several different people check your resume

DON'T

- Use personal data (birth date, marital status, health etc.)
- Use lengthy sentences and descriptions
- Use first person
- List salary requirements / history
- Write "Resume of Qualifications" at the top or "References Available Upon Request" at the bottom
- Write reasons for leaving a job
- Use weak adjectives; ie: "some knowledge of Spanish"
- Don't highlight skills that you don't want to use again

Tammy Blake
Personnel Director
Texas Agency on Family Violence
83062 N. Mopac Expressway
Austin, TX 78759

Dear Ms. Blake:

I would like to thank you for taking time to meet with me this past Wednesday to discuss the MSSW internship opportunity you have available in your agency. I enjoyed speaking with you about the position and really appreciate you answering my questions. After speaking with you and learning more about Texas Agency on Family Violence, I feel strongly that my background in working with children and families, and my research on domestic violence issues would be a great fit for your position. I feel it would be a mutually beneficial relationship for your agency and me.

If you have any further questions, please feel free to contact me. Once again thank you for your consideration and I look forward to the possibility of working with you next spring.

Sincerely,

Mary Baker

SAMPLE INTERVIEW QUESTIONS

In each and every interview situation, there are common questions that will be asked. Don't wait until the interview to decide your response! Be prepared and think through your answers before you arrive. It may even help to write down your answers and practice with someone. Try to keep your answers brief, usually less than 2 minutes. Remember, listening, confidence and quality of presentation are the keys to successful interviewing.
